PUBLIC WORKS IN FORMOSA.

The Japanese are virtually re-constructing the Kelung railway in Formosa. Not only was the original road a most defective piece of work, but its vagaries of direction might have inspired any engineer with horror. The reconstruction means straightening the line, a task that sometimes involves carrying it several miles out 'of its former course. Surveys for the extension of the line southward have been nearly completed, and it is expected that the work will soon be in full progress. Meanwhile, much has been done in the way of converting into good roads paths that in their provious state could scarcely contribute anything to facility of communication. necessity of providing a pure water as quickly as possible also been fully appreciated. that object the services of Professor Burton, late of the Imperial University, were enlisted, and he recently completed a plan An abundance of excellent water can be obtained by artesian borings at a depth of 90 feet below the surface, and under those circumstances the estimated cost of the works does not exceed three hundred thousand dollars. Keeking and Taiwan are also to be similarly provided, and we understand that Professor Burton will shortly proceed to the southern part of the island to make surveys and prepare plans for water-works

BENEVOLENT SOCIETY'S CONCERT: It is but proper that the attractiveness of music should be closely silied with charitable work. Both have ennobling influences, and the combination is therefore all the more engaging. The Benevolont Society of Hongkong appeals strongly to the sympathy and support of residents in the colony. The Society is under the management of a Committee of ladies, and for work in the colony in the way of helping widows and children left unsupported, supported by voluntary contributions. Last night a ballad concert was given at the Peak Hotel in aid of the funds of the Society. The concert took place in the dining room, which was found to be far too small for the audience. Godard's 'Berceuse' received a culturedrendering by Miss Coxon, and on an encore Total for two wickets. 27 being loudly demanded she charmingly sang 'Home Sweet Home,' to her own accompaniment. Mrs Welman was unfortunate in the choice of her songs, but she is possessed of a splendid voice, and we look forward to her next appearance with pleasure. Mr Sliman was in particularly good form, and sang his song with sweetness and good enunciation. The duet by Miss Coxon and Mr Sliman was very well rendered. The violin solos by Mr Goffe were played in a finished style, and in response to an encore he gave a perfect rendering of Mascagni's famous Intermezzo. Mr Grimble's solos were slightly marred by the piano being so very high, the accoustic qualities of the room making it appear as if he were making too free a use of the loud pedal. Mrs Norcott and Mr Grimble shared the accompaniments between them, and are to be congratulated on the artistic manner in which they performed their parts. The concert, financially and musically was a thorough success, and a considerable sum has been added to the funds of the

THE CZAR'S VISIT TO BALMORAL. London, Sept. 19.—Remarkable precautions are being taken by the police authorities to secure the safety of the Imperial train by which the Czar and Czarina of Russia will travel from Leith to Balmoral Castle on the occasion of their visit to Queen Victoria. The arches of the railway bridges en route ere being closely examined, and are being watched night and day in order to prevent the possibility of a dynamite outrage being perpetrated. Crarina on their arrival at Leith, Sootland, Sept. 23.—The Czar and Czarina arrived at Leith in the Castle line steamer Tantal lon Castle, in drenching rain. The Channel Squadron guarded the Czar's approach from Inchkeith Island to Leith. Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders (Prindon, the Kaisow for New York, the Hair cass Louiso's regiment) were drawn up on loong for Amoy, and the Haeshing for the jetty at Leith as a guard of honour. The Prince of Wales, the Duke of Conmught, and the Earl of Rosebery met the Tantallon Castle, with the Czar and Czarina on board. The Tantallon Castle passed through a flotilia of steam pinnaces, the sailors cheering loudly. The Czar and Czarina, accompanied by the Prince William to Divide Teacher (sternly) of Weles, the Duke of Connaught Willy Waffee, give that chewing gum to and Lord Rosebery, drove in open carriagos through the strests, which were lined with soldiery. Haines and Wallace became suspicious and fled to Rotterdam, where they booked their passages for the United States. They were arrested in an hotel where they were staying pending the departure of the steamer. A number of infernal machines, cipher documents, and £2000 in money were found in their possession. A key to the cipher was afterwards discovered, showing Typan's complicity with them. All the arrests were effected on Saturday night. When the police entered the hotel at Boulogne where Tynan was staying he was in his bedroom; the door of which was fastened. The door was forced open, and I ynan was arrested. He was drunk at the He had disguised himself, and had shaven off his beard... Typan admitted to the detectives that he expects to be hang-He was taken before the local police authorities, and remanded. It is expected that the proceedings for his extradition will take a fortnight. The London police are confident that under the recent treaty the French authorities will surrender Tynan. Bell was arrested in an hotel at Glasgow, where he had been staying for a week. He professed to be a tourist. He had lots of money, and is supposed to have been seeking recruits. In his possession were found letters and telegrams from Tynan requesting him to visit Boulogue, and warning him not to bring 'rotten stuff.' Bell documents in a lavatory. It has transpired that Joseph Bell, one of the gang of dynamitards, was the man who exploded a bomb at Carlisle in 1892. He was imprisoned for a term, but was released from gaol. From one of the letters seized by the police it is gathered that Wallace was invited by Tynan to proceed to Boulogne if he (Wallace) was afraid to remain in Scotland. Typen added that he would not tolerate cowardice.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR BLOWING UP MARLBOROUGH HOUSE. September 16.—Further particulars show that before leaving America Tynan unfolded the details of a plot which had been arranged for compassing the life of the Prince of Wales. It was his intention to hire a house in London opposite Marlborough House, the residence of the Prince and Princess of Wales, and to tunnel underneath the building, with the object of blowing up the Prince of Wales's residence and its ininates by dynamite. The plot received the support of a group of Nihilists in Chicago, headed by Rabinuvitz, a Russian chemist, who provided the necessary funds. A letter found in the possession of Wallsce, one of the dynamitards, contains references to a contemplated attack on a crowned had who is about to visit Queen Victoria. Bombs were found under the pillows of Wallace and Haines when they were arrested. The bombs were of an entirely new pattern, and were in the form of a tap. Tynan, when examined by the detectives in his cell at Boulogne, donied that he had any knowledge of Bell, who was arrested in Glasgow, until he was confronted with letters of a compromising nature, when he at once admitted that he was acquainted with Bell. Typen admitted having met Wallace at Antwerp. He has olaimed the protection of the French flag, and has also cabled to President Cleveland requesting him to secure his release on the ground of his being an American subject. The Irish National Alliance is raising a fund for the defence of the Irish dynamitards. A sum of £50,000 is required. The Czar expresses doubt as to whether the threat to dynamite a certain 'crowned head' of Europe referred to him. The American press attempts to minimise the serious nature of the plot, and ridicules the whole affair. Sept. 18.—It has transpired that Bell. one of the dynamiters arrested in connection with the Typan plots, is in reality a wealthy publican of New York, his real hane being Ivory. Typan has appealed to Mr J. B. Eustis the United States Minister in Paris, asking dition, and declaring that if successful he would receive the thanks of millions of Irishmen. Mr Eustis has notified the French Government that Tynan is an American citizen. The majority of the French journals express the opinion that it will be impossible to extradite Tynan.

The Tide table given below has been compiled by the Nautical Almanac Office in London from the results of the analysis of observations taken by means of an automatic tide recording machine in the Water Police Basin at Tsim Sha Tsui during the years 1887-8-9.

The zero of the table is Low Water Ordinary Spring Tides, which has been found to be 2 feet below mean sea level. To obtain the depth of water on the tide gauge at the Victoria Naval Yard add 5-16. 7 in., and on the gauge at Lamont Dock, Aberdoon, add 12 ft, 9 in to the height given in the table.

THE MANNING OF MERCHANT

The report of the English Board of Trade Committee appointed to inquire into the manning of British merchant ships has been issued. The chief suggestions therein relate to the establishment of training ships for boys, or schools, with vessel attached at the public expense, the Royal Navy to have the first claim upon those so trained If not wanted for the Navy, they would be open to employment elsowhere. As regards the A.B. and the O.S., the recommendations are that a boy of 17 leaving such training ship or school, or having had one year's experience as deck hand, should be entitled to the rating of an O.S. Nineteen is the age recommended for blossoming into the full A.R., who must have served three years as a deck hand and 'have an adequate knowledge of English, and no man must be employed as an A.B., who cannot prove his title. Another suggestion is that no steamer of or over 700 tons gross should be permitted to go to sea with less than six deck hands, of whom at least four should be A.B.'s, in addition to the master and mates. This proportion is kept up till the 5500-6000 ton steamers are reached, these to be manned by one master, three mates, one carpenter, one bontswain or A.B. in lieu, eight A.B.'s and two O.S.'s, an A.B. or his equivalent being added for every

THE FATE OF THE POEM.

Mr and Mrs Prendergast agreed one day to eke out an uncompensated rupes by contributing to the papers, and decided to begin with a poem for the P.....r. 'I am sure, Gus dear, said Mrs Pren dergast, who has a true wife's opinion of her husband's abilities, 'I am sure you could write every bit as well as 'Latakia and 'R. S. V. P., and those people. For my own part, I don't think very much of their productions; a poem should have some sentiment in it. When I was at school we used to write poems every Saturday morning; and they used to set us the death of a pet canary, or something. little kittens. Let me see, how did it

'Little strangers, how d'you do ? Answer with a merry new. "Yes, assented Prendergast, that's the sort of thing. If that other fellow hadn't written those lines about mothers and their children in exile, we might have done that." 'What do you say,' suggested Mrs. Prendergast, glancing at the cradle with fond eyes, 'to writing an ode to Babsie?' 'Or an elegy on the death of the bhishti's

'But he didn't die, Gus. Dr. Heyman used the stomach pump, you know. 'That needn't matter, need it? No one would know. You might begin something like this :—

For thee no more the patient bail Shall stand stand,—stand,—bother the thing, stand where? Oh! yes, I have it:

Shall stand expectant at the well,

Dispersing with impatient tail The flies that—that—' 'But, Gus, are you quite sure that would do ! "Tail," you see, doesn't properly rhyme to "bail:" and then our bhishti's bail hasn't got a full tall. Don't you remember fining him two annas for twisting the end of it off, and he said that the rats had eaten it in the night . Now, if you were to write about Babsie. it would be so easy, and I could tell you everything you didn't know about the little darling's things. Suppose you were to begin with: Precious little heavenly pet,

Slumbering in your bassinette,— Prendercast: 'vou might as well reading something about mosquitoes in a Wynyard-square, in whose house deceased no strength. I had great pain and weight at the poem only the other day, and "net" is had been staying from the 22nd ultimo to chest and right side, and my skin turned sallow certainly poetry, because Tennyson uses 'Anyhow, it won't do.' Prendergast is getting a little hot : composition does not always promote composure. As you please, dear,' answers his wife, soothingly, you know best. 'What shall' it be then? You have only to settle on a subject, and the rest will be quite easy. Don't you remember how clever you always were at bouts rimes when we used to play them after dinnor at the Jacksons | Prendergast is mullifled. 'Oh yes, that sort of thing,' he says, 'that's easy enough; but then you have the rhymes given you, and you are obliged to stick to them. A thing is always easier when you can't help yourself.

'I have got an idea.'

"I'll give you the rhymes, just as if we were playing at bouts rimes, and then you shall write it, and we will touch it up to-Hether aftskwards.

'All right : fire away.' Mrs Prendergast fetched a dictionary to assist her intagination, and a piece of paper and a pencil for her husband, ing over the leaves, 'andde-creature; face |

—feature. to start with. Now for a subject. 'Babs---' begins Mrs Prendergast, feeling her way.

No, not Babsic: anything but Babsic. But, Gus dear, think how well the words fit in ; it's quits a providence.' Cunning Mrs. Prendergast! Well then, do it yourself. Mrs. P. thinks a little, and then begins:

*Coming from the realms of space." "I don't like "coming," objects her husband, 'it's a feeble word; Realms of space is all right." 'Hailing from,' suggests his wife. 'Wafted,' better.

Oh yes, ahe assents. Wasted from the realms of space, Gentle little dove-eyed creature. Prendergast nods a conditional approval, as who should say, 'I may have an alteration to make later on. When I gaze into your face. How I date on every feature ! 'That would do.' She continues, 'Now. let us go on to the next verse. Nose-Cherry, Rose-Very. But Prendergast is not attending. At She'll feel very sore on a prominent feature.' 'Oh, Gus dear, isn't that rather vulgar? I don't think the editor would take it. If you will not have Babsie or me, why not write an ode to Nature : it gives such scope for poetical expression. Mrs Prendergast takes a piece of paper, and after some minutes gazing out into the verandah her pencil begins slowly to travel across the sheet, sometimes even backwards and forwards over the line, like a goods train shunting. Then she looks up with conscious pride, and reads : ODE TO NATURE. Dweller in eternal Space, Loving nurse of every creature, Rippling pools reflect thy face, Timiest flowers thy smallest feature.' Isn't that rather good, Gus?' 'You cribbed it from somewhere,' 'Indeed, indeed, Gus, I didn't; it's all out of my own head. Well, it isn't exactly bad, says Prendergast patronisingly. 'It would want touching up of course. I could easily do that for you. But how would you go on?" 'I think I know, answered his wife, 2040 you will want to personify; and when you have described all Nature's charms, you must find them embodied in some one." 'Yes, but whom?'

What do you say, said Mrs Prendergast, pretending to think, 'to Babsic?' And then Prendergast got up quite angrily and said: 'Look here, I'm not going to have Babsie. If you can't keep Babsie but of it, you must write your poem by yourself, and I'll write mine. And that is how it came about that neither of them wrote anything; at least nothing appeared; but there was a letter some time after signed 'A Mother,' which might have been unconfortable reading for

SUICIDE OF A MINE MANAGER The following extract, taken from the Sydney Morning Herald of the 18th September, refers to the former manager of the mining property of the New Balmoral Gold Mining Company:-The Coroner (Mr J. C. Woore, J.P.) held an inquest yesterday afternoon at the South Sydney Morgue on the body of William Bruce Henderson; aged about 60 years, a resident of Lawson, whose death occurred in the scrub at the back of Mount Rennie on the 16th instant. Mr William Henderson, a member of the firm of Turner and Henderson, booksellers, of Sydney, identified the body, and stated that deceased, whose occupation was that of mine-manager, left one daughter. He was a man of temperate habits, but when witness saw him about a fortnight ago deceased appeared to be in a depressed and melancholy state of health. Peter Kenney stated that between 8 and 9 o'clock on the morning of the 16th instant he discovered the dead body in the scrub at the back of Mount Rennie with the revolver in his hand, and informed Constable Sinclair, who took charge of the body. Dr G. H. Taylor, Government Pathologist, stated the deceased had probably been dead about 24 hours when he examined the body yesterday afternoon. A wound such as might have been caused by a bullet from the revolver produced was visible on the right side of the head. In his opinion the injuries to the brain and skull were the cause of death. Dr Thomas Dixon, of Elizabeth-street, deposed that deceased had been a patient of his, and was suffering from melancholia. He had seemed to be in distress about family matters, and witness was not surprised when the news of his death reached him. Mr Victor-Le Gay Bassinette' isn't poetry, objected Brereton, solicitor for Major Parrott, produced a letter which he had ceived from the police. Edward Jules found myself in had health. unhappy conditions a human being can fall into -the word hypochendria (often abbreviated to " hpo "), the word meaning under the cartilages. "For seven years," writes a correspondent, "I suffered from complaint of the liver. I was very bilious, my skin was sallow and dry, and the whites of my eyes yellow. I had much pain and weight at my right side, and was constantly depressed and melancholy. It seemed to be out of my power to take a hopeful or cheerful view of anything.
